

Winter Skies

Ruth Buchanan, Ammon Ngakuru, Shannon Te Ao
11 August — 9 September 2023

Because you both understand that the moon and the sun and the centre of world are as tiny as each of your individual edges, your boundaries,

And you know that neither of you has a sun or a moon,

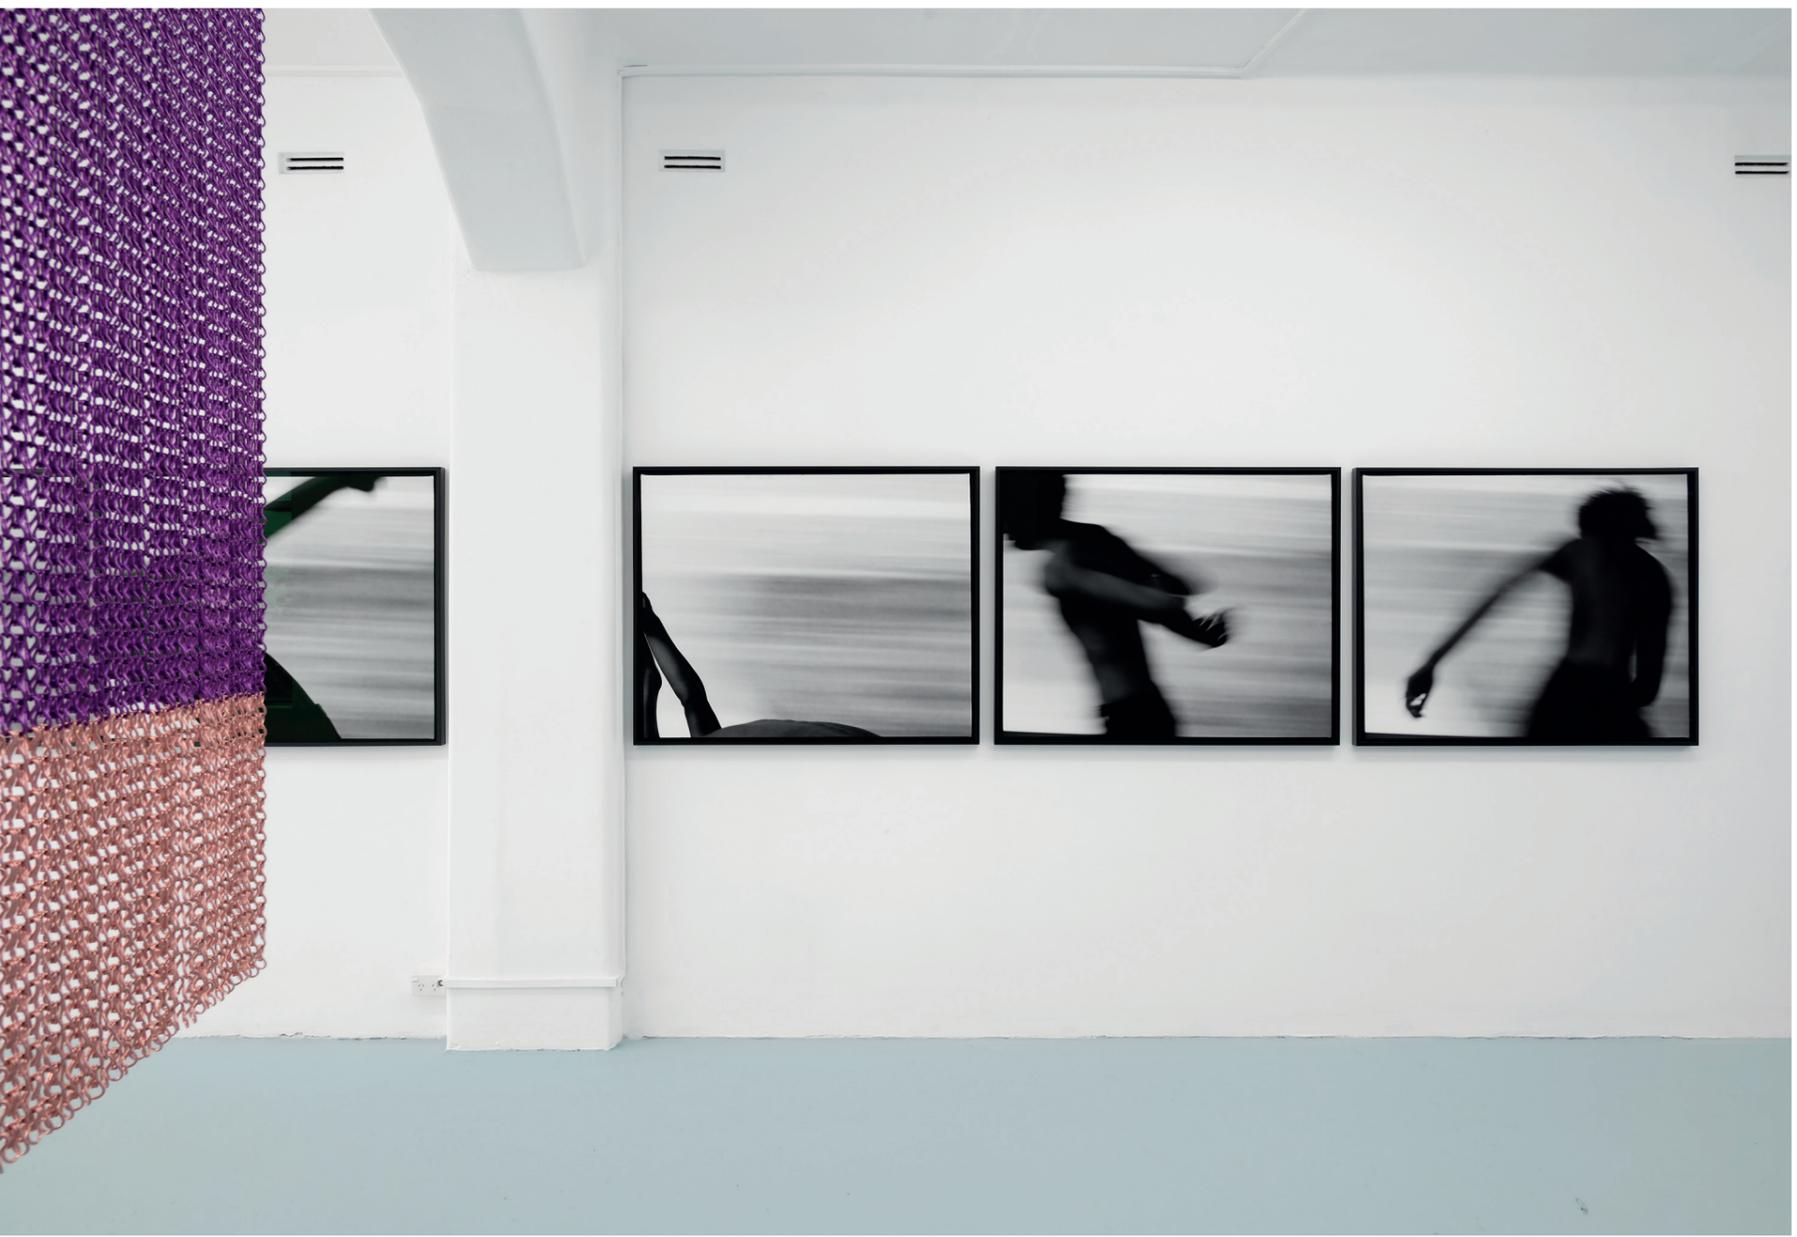

Because you understand, too, that the moon does not emanate its own light but only reflects the sun.

But how can that be?

When we know the moon was actually the light,

the sun its loyal follower
